WHAT IS PEAKFRESH?

- PEAKfresh is modified atmosphere packaging (MAP) made specifically for fruit and vegetables
- MAP products modify the composition of the air surrounding the packaged food in order to extend the initial fresh state of the product

- There are various types of Modified Atmosphere Packaging

Laser Micro Perforation

CO2 Injection

Ethylene Extraction

- The effectiveness of PEAKfresh comes from a natural occurring mineral found in Australia
- This mineral extracts ethylene gas which is the agent that causes produce to ripen and ultimately spoil
- By reducing ethylene gas, PEAKfresh extends the freshness and life of produce up to 2 – 3 times normal shelf life

- PEAKfresh mineral is embedded into low density polyethylene film which is then made into packaging products such as pallet covers, box liners and storage bags

- An anti-fog treatment is also included to further enhance results by creating high humidity levels similar to when the produce was on the vine
- PEAKfresh is odorless and does not alter the taste of produce in any way
- PEAKfresh is an effective deodorizer to produce with strong odors such as onions

- PEAKfresh has long been used by growers, shippers and retail chains to preserve the freshness of produce during transit and storage
